WATCH WOMEN

It's officially a sport, so it's fine...

Forget football, real men like volleyball, especially when it involves girls called Holly McPeaks in tiny bikinis on the Women's Beach Volleyball Tour. For the ultimate in beachside viewing try Rio's Copacabana beach, it's jammed with Brazilian ladies. Women's World Tour, Copacabana, 20-25 September. Visit www.fivb.org. Fly BA to Rio, £297.

SCRAPPING

YUGO TO JAIL

Football Serbian style... British football is just too female-friendly these days (Family enclosures? Handsome foreign players? Mascots?) But soccer Serbian-style is a different matter – especially at the infamous Belgrade derby. Running battles of several thousand fans occur each time the teams meet, with the Red Star 'Heroes' (formerly co-ordinated by assassinated war criminal Arkan) and Partizan 'Gravediggers' getting busy with knives, iron bars and flares. Visit www.fc-redstar.net or www.partizan.net for fixture and ticket information. Fly BA to Belgrade, from £179.

'I said I wanted fucking ketchup on it!'

LEARN SHIPING

It's a great comfort to know that in these terror-threatened times, any war-crazed loon with a few quid can enrol in a course that'll transform them from a foaming-mouthed nutter into a foaming-mouthed killing machine. At the McMillan Sniper School in deepest Arizona, a team of ex-servicemen are on hand to take you and your mates through courses covering everything from basic marksmanship and stalking techniques to night target and live fire exercises. If that's not enough to put her off, just point out that being a sniper requires absolute silence for hours on end. (And tell her to start practising right now.) Tuition, £110 a day. Visit www.sniper-school.org. Fly AA to Phoenix, from £550.

TURN JAPANESE

With such charmingly named streets as Shomben Yokocho ('Piss Alley'), it should come as no surprise to learn that Tokyo is something of a gentlemen's destination. With what they call a 'refreshingly honest' (ie perverse and filthy) attitude to sex, the Japanese have commercialised and institutionalised every sordid facet of the male psyche. You'll have heard about the vending machines dispensing schoolgirls' used knickers; Then there are the 'Soaplands', massage parlours that openly specialise in 'extras', the 'Love hotels' (the world's most high-tech, obviously, with electronic beds and cameras to record a 'souvenir'. Oh, and the 'Pink Bars' (use your imagination). Fly KLM, from £480.

JOIN UP WITH THE FRENCH FOREIGN LEGION

Less a 'holiday', more a 'gap year' (or five). Any fit male between 17 and 40 is eligible, and the closest recruitment office is in Lille (just a quick jaunt on Eurostar). The first three weeks are spent proving your mettle through psychometric tests, physicals and endurance trials. Only 30 out of every 500 make it – signing an unbreakable five-year contract. Four months intensive training and you're a Legionnaire (on £550 a month!) Expect to be on the frontline of any war (in the first Gulf conflict, the Legionnaires were first to arrive, and left with zero casualties) – but they were very popular with the ladies. Take Eurostar to Lille, from £28.
